

Corona Repurpose

We often collaborate with globally recognised Mexican lager brand Corona on an upcycling initiative that repurposes old branded materials - including banners, hammocks, and umbrellas - into new, wearable, and functional lifestyle pieces. We love reimagining these materials into trendy, long-lasting creations that merge sustainability with style. This project reflects our shared commitment to circular design and responsible production, as well as a passion for the process!

Veld & Sea

We were asked to create a T-shirt for Veld & Sea that embodied their signature connection to the natural world. Celebrating wild food, ocean tides, and the beauty of slow, seasonal living. From first concept to final layout, we collaborated with the Veld & Sea team to craft a design that feels earthy, enchanting, and true to their ethos, including tote bags & vests - and regular reruns of the best selling tees since!

The Dressing Room

To create a set of custom aprons for The Dressing Room Café - practical, timeless, and true to their understated, elegant aesthetic. The client wanted aprons that were as durable as they were beautiful, made from natural fabrics and designed for everyday wear and movement in a busy café setting - something that set them apart and added to their aesthetic value within the Weylandts store.

Lapis and the Red Thread

A T-shirt that is high quality, breathable and unisex... The cut was really important for this one size fits design, as were working with the right natural textiles to create something that felt as good on the skin as it looked, and contributed positively to the artisanal jewellery side of the brand.

ALIVE

We were asked to design a custom activewear collection for Alive Heated Fitness - apparel that moves with the body, supports every flow, and embodies the brand's energy and spirit. The collection needed to balance style, comfort, and performance while reflecting the ALIVE philosophy of movement, mindfulness, and strength. We took every measure throughout the sampling process to create something that fitted beautifully and performed excellently - often in very hot, high intensity classes!

The Mounting Bloc

To create a cohesive and elevated range of lifestyle apparel and accessories for The Mounting Bloc - a brand blending modern equestrian style with everyday functionality. The goal was to translate their passion for horses, design, and the outdoors into pieces that feel refined, wearable, and made to last. We have worked hand in hand with this brand over the years to constantly refine, develop & improve on quality & application, as well as expand on the product range.

Crawfords Beach Lodge | Bungalow Beach Boutique

Crawfords was a merchandise and rebranding project that invited a new look and feel to the launch of their Bungalow Beach Boutique Store. We worked closely with one of our graphic designers to create something that was modern, fresh and relevant with that inimitable coastal aesthetic across a range of totes, tees & sweaters.
